Rachael spent the first 9 weeks of 2008 as the junior to Chris Kennedy in an insurance fraud case that was heard at London County Court. The case represented the first time that the insurance industry sued individuals who they believed were guilty of civil fraud. The case against the six Defendants involved hundreds of thousands of pounds. Each Defendant was separately represented and the evidence was complex and long. This experience provided Rachael with the opportunity to work alongside extremely experienced counsel on a challenging and ground-breaking case.

Rachael provides a professional and down-to-earth service.
